Improving access to imported food safety requirements

Imported food safety requirements are now in our Biosecurity Import Conditions system (BICON).

Food importers, brokers, trading partners and department staff benefit with:

- easier access to clear information about border requirements for biosecurity and food safety available from a single source (BICON)
- fewer delays at the border
- improved delivery of service.

The search function in BICON is user friendly and distinguishes between biosecurity import conditions and food safety requirements.

Search by using the quick search, scientific name or tariff code options.

Select the food safety requirements tab to find the relevant imported food case.
